

Davis group against drunken driving considers DUI offender registry (The Salt Lake Tribune)

Contributed by Webmaster
Friday, 19 June 2009
Last Updated Friday, 19 June 2009

More info...

Davis County residents who drink and drive might face more than just fines and jail time. Those with two or more convictions could see their mug shots and blood-alcohol levels posted on an online "DUI offender registry."

Missing witness a key to DUI trial (Edwardsville Intelligencer)

Where in the world is Justin Newberry? That question probably crossed the minds of jurors at a DUI trial this week at the Madison County Courthouse, since Newberry wasn't there to give his version of what really happened around 2:30 a.m. on Feb. 26, 2007, on the Berm Highway near Wood River Creek.

Man charged with DUI manslaughter pleads guilty (NBC 15 Mobile)

A Lakeland man has pleaded guilty to five counts of DUI manslaughter for a crash that killed four relatives of a bride-to-be on the eve of her wedding.

{mos_sb_discuss:2}